The company have recently moved from Hampton to new premises in Ashford, Middlesex to house their ever-growing team, currently consisting of 50 staff. InsureYourMotor.com are hoping to soon become the largest employer in Ashford.

InsureYourMotor.com are a young and innovative team headed up by Founder and Managing Director David Harlow, who comments:

“Having worked in the insurance business for many years it became abundantly apparent that the majority of business was conducted over the telephone and if an increase in sales was achieved over a period of time, then the number of employees must also be increased to deal with the enquiries. By creating an online service, people can now go online and get themselves a quote almost immediately with little fuss and less need for expensive staffing costs which ultimately push the price of the quote up.”
